

This new book in the Wiltshire Buildings Record series on building types is a comprehensive study of the chapels and meeting houses of the county.

Wiltshire Nonconformist Chapels and Meeting Houses

a Guide and Gazetteer

James Holden

Wiltshire is particularly lucky in the variety and quality of its chapels, which range from tiny country meeting houses of traditional gable-ended design to large town churches with Classical façades and space for 1,000 or more worshippers in their galleried interiors.

This book documents them. Introductory chapters describe the development of nonconformity in the county and the way chapel design has evolved in the three centuries since the first were built. These are followed by a gazetteer describing each of the almost 500 chapels still standing with details of their appearance and history.

With over 250 photographs in addition to the authoritative text, this book provides the definitive guide to the history and design of these fascinating buildings.
